Man charged with attempted murder

Fort Campbell soldier accused of shooting at vehicle while on post

BY DAVE BOUCHER
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A Fort Campbell soldier has been charged with two counts of attempted murder following an alleged shooting late Saturday night on post, said Fort Campbell spokesman Rick Rzepka.

Spc. Larry William Reed was apprehended around 3:30 a.m. Sunday after Fort Campbell authorities were alerted to an incident that occurred around 11:30 p.m. Saturday, Rzepka said.

Witnesses reportedly saw Reed fire at a vehicle, according to The Associated Press, but Rzepka said no one was shot.

“Thank goodness no one was hurt,” Rzepka said.

Fort Campbell police and the Army Criminal Investigation Division participated in the arrest, Rzepka said. The investigation into what led to or transpired during the alleged shooting is still underway, he said.

Reed was held Sunday at a detention facility on post. Rzepka said he will be transferred to Christian County Jail. Check www.kentuckynewera.com for updates to this story as more details become available.

SOMETHING SPARKLY

I was thrilled when I heard about a festival devoted to ham. Even more so when I arrived and found I could also shop while enjoying the delicious smell of bacon.

Our home anything but boring

EDITOR'S NOTE: When something sparkly catches Community Editor Monica K. Smith's eye, she's going to tell you about it. Her column, accompanied by a blog on Facebook, will run in the community edition.

This week marks my seventh month since arriving at the Kentucky New Era, where I have begun to transform from a globe-trotting city girl to a community-focused country diva.

How does one acclimatize from five years in the Army — stationed in balmy Savannah, Ga., between business trips to Iraq and Afghanistan — to working at a newspaper in freezing (at least it's freezing to me) Kentucky? And how does a high-heeled, city-savvy Texan adjust to low-key western Kentucky? My familiarity with rodeos and love for the outdoors may be my only saving graces in a land of “hollers” and burgo.

Archaeologist looks to lead excavation project in Riverside Cemetery

STORY AND PHOTOS BY DENNIS O'NEIL | NEW ERA FEATURES WRITER

The Camp Alcorn Cemetery within Riverside Cemetery is shown recently. The cemetery contains close to 300 headstones memorializing Confederate soldiers who died in Hopkinsville in the winter of 1861-62. The headstones were erected in 2001 by a local chapter of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Bracing against the cold in Riverside Cemetery, one will find the Camp Alcorn Confederate Cemetery sitting in serenity. A troop of leafless trees towers over close to 300 headstones, packed tightly together under the gray sky.

At the rear of the cemetery is a rough stone monolith standing amongst the graves. It bears a plaque explaining the cemetery's history; the headstones represent Confederate soldiers who died during the winter of 1861-62 while stationed at Camp Alcorn in Hopkinsville. Most died from diseases like measles, pneumonia and typhoid fever. The monolith and the headstones were erected in 2001 by a local chapter of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

While the headstones pay tribute to the soldiers, their remains are elsewhere. Many of the soldiers are buried in the old Potter's Field area of the cemetery, just south of Riverside Chapel and adjacent to the Camp Alcorn cemetery.

Although the original burial ground's location is unknown, a record of its burial pattern still survives. There were 227 graves recorded in the notebook of Confederate soldier Sgt. George Anderson. Anderson's notebook included a layout with the names of soldiers and the order in which they were buried.

Anderson's notebook was discovered in the basement of the Bank of Hopkinsville in 1899. Its contents were reported in an article from the Kentucky New Era that same year. The notebook has since disappeared again, but the article survives, the only record of the notebook's contents.

By 1886, the original burial ground was overgrown with vegetation. John C. Latham, a Hopkinsville native and wealthy New York banker, made a donation to the city for a monument in memory of the Confederate dead in Riverside.

A stone monolith with a plaque explaining the cemetery's history is shown. The soldiers' remains are elsewhere in the cemetery; 101 bodies were exhumed in 1886 and placed around the Latham monument. The remaining bodies are still in the original Confederate burial ground in the cemetery's Potter's Field area adjacent to Camp Alcorn Cemetery.

WHO WE ARE: Martha Cavanah, 52, Hopkinsville

Martha Cavanah owns Sweet Repeats, a consignment shop on Fort Campbell Boulevard. She opened the store nine months ago.

Cavanah previously did most of her shopping in consignment shops in Clarksville, Tenn., Bowling Green and Nashville, Tenn., and decided to open one of her own. Prior to opening, she worked for the U.S. Census Bureau.

Cavanah said there are many advantages to shopping at consignment stores.

“You can find a lot of good bargains,” she said. “Instead of paying full price for something, you can pay a third or less for it.”

The shop sells mostly women's clothing and accessories. Cavanah said business has been slow lately, but she hopes things will improve in the spring.

“I'm hoping that once everyone gets their tax refunds, it'll help,” she said.

Cavanah has 150 consigners and splits all sales with them 50-50.

KENTUCKY BRIEF

Ex-police officer pleads guilty to 140 sex charges

HARRODSBURG, Ky. (AP) — A one-time Harrodsburg police officer has pleaded guilty to more than 140 counts of rape, sodomy and sexual abuse.

In an agreement with prosecutors, 31-year-old Jason Elder will serve three years in prison, enroll in and complete a sex offender treatment program and serve 85 percent of his sentence before becoming eligible for parole. He entered the plea Friday morning in Mercer Circuit Court.

Elder will have to register as a sex offender. All of the charges involved one girl, who was 14 at the time, the Lexington Herald-Leader reported.

Elder was an officer who conducted Drug Abuse Resistance Education classes in the Mercer County schools.

The Harrodsburg City Commission suspended Elder without pay after the indictment was returned last year.

Formal sentencing is scheduled for April 5.

Pay no heed to those people waving at you!

DEAR AMY: Our son came back to live in our home three years ago after completing his Ph.D.

He has living quarters on the lower level of our home. He is 30 years old and we feel he should have some privacy, so he can come and go as he pleases.

He helps his father out around the house when asked, but he does not contribute to the house fund. However, he does buy food every now and then.

We do not need his money so we are comfortable with the way things are financially. The only thing we have asked of him is that when a friend comes over we would like him to introduce the friend to us out of respect.

Are we old-fashioned? He says that when you introduce a woman to the family it is basically saying you are in a serious relationship.

Is this the new rule? What do you think? — Curious Parents

DEAR PARENTS: Your son is referring to a long-established convention: the idea of "bringing someone home to meet the folks."

This implies that a romantic relationship is serious — serious enough, anyway, to travel somewhere for the express purpose of introducing a friend to the 'rents.

However, when you are a 30-year-old living in your parents' basement, bringing someone home to meet the folks doesn't imply anything about your romantic relationship. It simply means that you have wandered into an episode of "Everybody Loves Raymond."

Your son may tell dates that the older couple shouting, "Yoo hoo," from the upper window of his bachelor pad are the caretakers on his modest estate. And you are, in a way.

He might be embarrassed to reveal that he is living with Mom and Dad.

I agree that he should show you the respect to introduce visitors to you, but he sounds like someone who has had very little asked of him, and so it is not surprising that he is refusing this small courtesy.

Bible newcomer should not be discouraged at first

DEAR REV. GRAHAM: I got a Bible from my aunt for Christmas, but when I started reading it I got all bogged down and after a few days I just quit. What am I doing wrong? I didn't grow up in a church or anything, so maybe that's the problem. — M.R.

DEAR M.R.: A church background might have helped you, but I hope you won't let that discourage you or keep you from discovering the Bible for yourself. You may even find it more exciting than some people do who have brushed up against it all their lives!

Part of the problem is that the Bible is different from any other book you've ever read. When you read a book, you naturally begin at the beginning and go straight through it, page by page. But the Bible is different, because the best way to discover its message is to begin at the center — that is, to begin with one of the Gospels in the New Testament. (I often suggest people begin with the Gospel of John.)

Why is this? The reason is because the whole Bible revolves around Jesus Christ. The Old Testament points forward to His coming; the New Testament tells of His coming, and what

MY ANSWER

BILLY GRAHAM

He has done for us. Once you understand who Jesus was and what He has done for you, the rest of the Bible will become clearer.

The greatest discovery any person can ever make is that God loves them, and He sent His Son into the world so they could know Him in a personal way. Don't give up, but ask God to show Himself to you as you read the Bible. The Bible's promise is true: "The unfolding of your words gives light; it gives understanding to the simple" (Psalm 119:130).

E. Ky. job club looking for more participants

GRAYSON, Ky. (AP) — Some residents in eastern Kentucky can take advantage of a new opportunity designed to help them find a job.
The Carter County Job Club held its first meeting in Grayson last week and is looking for more people to join, according to The Independent. It's open to drop-ins, though they are encouraged to come early for an orientation, and it's free to participate.
The group of job seekers meets weekly with local work force professionals so they can improve their job searches. In addition, they can network, share job leads and offer support to each other.
Traci Nolen, job club coordinator for the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program Inc., said statistics show 80 percent of job club participants find employment compared to 15 percent of those who search alone.
"If you're really serious about finding a job, you should take this opportunity to take your search up to the next level," Nolen said. "Our job club will give you the tools, skills, job leads, and understanding of how the job market works that can help you get hired."
She said workforce professionals, local business people and other guests are invited to speak to members, which allows them to learn more about successful job-searching techniques and allows them to network.
Networking is one of the most important opportunities the job club provides because it gives job seekers a chance to "know the people who know the people who have the jobs," Nolan said.

HEARING LOSS and DEMENTIA LINKED

If hearing loss goes untreated, a condition called "auditory deprivation" occurs, this has been confirmed by scientific studies. Seniors with hearing loss are significantly more likely to develop dementia over time than those who retain their hearing, a study by Johns Hopkins and National Institute on Aging researchers suggests. The findings, the researchers say, could lead to new ways to combat dementia, a condition that affects millions of people worldwide. Although the reason for the link between the two conditions is unknown, the investigators suggest that a common pathology may underlie both or that the strain of decoding sounds over the years may overwhelm the brains of people with hearing loss, leaving them more vulnerable to dementia. They also speculate that hearing loss could lead to dementia by making individuals more socially isolated, a known risk factor for dementia and other cognitive disorders. But there's good news! Whatever the cause, the scientists report, their finding may offer a starting point for interventions even as simple as hearing aids - that could delay or prevent dementia by improving patients' hearing.

Rep. Gabrielle Giffords' resignation leaves race wide open for Arizona seat

PHOENIX (AP) — Rep. Gabrielle Giffords announced Sunday she would be resigning from her congressional seat in order to concentrate more on her health.

"I have more work to do on my recovery," the congresswoman says at the end of a two-minute-long YouTube video "A Message from Gabby," appearing to strain with all of her will to communicate. "So to do what's best for Arizona, I will step down this week."

A bullet to the brain, from point-blank range, is a nearly impossible obstacle to overcome, even for a congresswoman known for pluckiness and fight. Giffords seemed to accept that reality in the video announcing her resignation from Congress, which also included a promise to return one day to her mission to help Arizonans.

The three-term Democrat was widely considered a shoo-in for re-election because of her tragic shooting at a Tucson constituent meeting a year ago.

Her decision creates a now wide-open race to fill her seat. Gov. Jan Brewer will call a special election in June to fill Gifford's 8th Congressional District.

FALLEN: City unlikely to OK cemetery excavation

Hopkinsville City Council commissioned an exhumation project in which the remains of 101 soldiers were unearthed and reinterred beneath the monument, which still sits near the entrance to the cemetery. The exhumed soldiers are not identified on the Latham monument and no record exists for which graves were exhumed.

William Meacham, an archaeologist with the University of Hong Kong, wants to lead an excavation project to find the original burial ground. If he can locate the site, Meacham thinks the remaining soldiers can be identified using the records kept in Anderson's notebook. If they are successful, Meacham would like to see the soldiers' headstones moved to their actual gravesites.

"It's not only the commemorating of the soldiers that is important here," Meacham said. "It is also a historic site for the city. It's a Civil War site."

Meacham, who is originally from Nashville, Tenn., has roots in Hopkinsville and has already led restoration projects in two of his family's cemeteries in northern Christian County. He has written or edited 10 books on archeology and has led 23 excavations in Hong Kong.

Christian County Historian William Turner plans to assist Meacham in identifying the original burial ground using historical documents as well as an article from the South Kentuckian about the 1886 exhumation. The article describes the original setting and the exhumation work.

Meacham also plans to use ground penetrating radar, a method in which high frequency radio waves are used to detect buried objects, to identify the area of the graves. If this method proves ineffective, Meacham proposes digging four-foot, east-west trenches with a backhoe. A disturbance in natural soil would be clear after three to four feet, Meacham said, and the graves would stand out against the natural soil deposit.

With most of the recorded rows having a different number of graves, Meacham thinks they could match the findings with the burial layout in the old notebook. If the remaining bodies are identified, he thinks they can also identify the soldiers exhumed in the 1886 project by process of elimination.

"It is a pretty easy target archaeologically," Meacham said of the original burial site. "There are rows of eight, 10, 12, 14 graves and it is a fairly large area that was the Confederate burial ground. It wouldn't be too hard to find that area with a backhoe."

Meacham issued a project proposal to Hopkinsville City Council in December. He has requested the use of a backhoe with an operator and funding for a pair of laborers. Meacham is willing to direct the project for free.

City Grounds Maintenance Superintendent Mike Perry recommended against funding the project. Depending on the amount of digging required and the progress Meacham makes, costs could run between $10,000 and $15,000, Perry said.

"If you dug the whole thing up, you are looking at probably a two-week plus project," Perry said. "If you start to dig the whole thing up, the costs add up pretty quick."

Hopkinsville Mayor Dan Kemp

has opted not to pursue the project based largely on Perry's recommendation. With the Camp Alcorn cemetery in place, Kemp feels the Confederate soldiers already have a suitable memorial.

"That is one of the bad things about war time," Kemp said. "There are always unmarked graves where you don't know where the actual body is. That's unfortunate but the situation is not unusual."

Kemp has asked for input from city council members about whether or not to discuss the project at a future Committee of the Whole meeting. He has received nothing back and plans on denying Meacham's request unless he hears something from a council member.

Turner thinks the project should be undertaken to honor those who died.

"It is absolutely vital to be done out of respect," Turner said. "It is our responsibility as descendants of people living here at that time to do everything we can to preserve what was here. It is equally important to share it with younger generations."

Genevieve Netz, a local woman who has helped Meacham research the Confederate burials, is saddened that so many soldiers were left behind in the 1886 exhumation. With Meacham's project, she feels the city has a chance to honor the soldiers appropriately.

"To know that it is wrong and to have the ability to make it correct, it is just wrong not to do that," Netz said. "Family members can know where their ancestors are. The unmarked graves will have the respect they deserve."

On Sunday, 154 soldiers of 159th Combat Aviation Brigade, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault) returned home to Fort Campbell after a yearlong deployment to Afghanistan. The 159th CAB is the 101st Airborne Division's last major unit still in Afghanistan.

Our paper has multiple sections devoted to upcoming local events. A few events have caught my eye:

■ Oil Painting Classes

Tuesday, Jan. 24 — Thursday Jan. 26
Hopkinsville Art Guild is hosting an oil painting class at Bradford Square mall.

■ Eagle Watch Weekend

Friday, Jan. 27 at 8 a.m. — Sunday, Jan. 29 at 4 p.m.
Boarding a boat on Lake Barkley, set sail and view migrating and local birds.

■ Bison Auction at Land Between the Lakes

Saturday, Jan. 28 at 9 a.m.
Even if you don't have 100 acres for a bison herd, this might be fun just to watch. Who knows, maybe you can come home with a new "Fluffy" for the family.

■ Pancake Breakfast

Saturday, Feb. 4 at 6 a.m. — noon
The Kiwanis club will have a breakfast at the War Memorial Building. Now who doesn't love pancakes?

■ Sweetheart Weekend

Friday, Feb. 3 at 4 p.m. to Saturday, Feb. 4 at 11 p.m.
Make reservations for Lake Barkley's Sweetheart weekend. A room for two in the woods with meals and a evening of dancing — sounds romantic! Or make it a girls night out and stay up late like you did when you were in high school.

■ Secret Garden

Saturday, Feb. 4 at 7 p.m.
The Alhambra Theater frequently has shows to watch at very reasonable prices. You can leave your opera glasses and theater gloves at home.

Panel debates release of Ky. child abuse records

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A state health official argued for privacy in child abuse records and media representatives called for more transparency in the first open exchange in a two-year legal battle to disclose child abuse files under Kentucky's open records law.

The panel discussion on Friday — part of the Kentucky Press Association's winter convention — came a day after a Kentucky judge fined the Cabinet for Health and Family Services for illegally withholding records on child deaths and child abuse sought by three newspapers.

Teresa James, acting commissioner of the Department of Community Based Services, said case files contain intimate and painful details about victims and can follow families for generations, the Courier-Journal reported.

"Just as passionate as you are about First Amendment rights, I am equally, as a social worker, passionate about people's confidentiality and right to privacy," she told newspaper publishers, editors and journalists at the meeting in Lexington.

Jon Fleischaker, an attorney for The Courier-Journal and a panelist, said the concept of privacy has been expanded over the past two decades to include information that people want to hide, regardless of whether it fits the traditional definition.

"We let it go too easily to say we need total confidentiality to help the kids," he said. "I really disagree with that. I think transparency protects the kids."

The Courier-Journal, the Lexington Herald-Leader and the Todd County Standard sought access to the records in their reporting on the state's child welfare system.

SPARKLY: If you're bored, you might be the problem

I didn't think I'd be able to compare my adventures before Kentucky to the things I'd do once I arrived in the Pennyriple. How can you transition from hanging out of a Black Hawk to doing anything with both feet on the ground? Although I did look forward to being in a place with any sort of elevation — where I grew up in Texas is flat, Savannah is below sea level and you can't very well go romping around in Afghanistan — I was nervous.

I was worried I might be bored. When I arrived, my first few conversations with locals didn't alleviate my fears. Many of the people I met who were my age or younger had a disdain for the lack of "anything fun to do" in western Kentucky. I was told hanging out in parking lots was the norm for after-hour activities in this neck of the woods.

A few months later I realized there is plenty to do. True, the mall in Hopkinsville doesn't compare to the tri-level malls of Dallas, and the nightlife in the Pennyriple may tuck in at night well before I am ready. However, boring is not a word I would attribute to my new home.

If you want to be bored in this part of the world, you're going to have to try. In my short seven months, I've scaled rock walls, created my own trail through Land Between the Lakes, looked for signs of aliens, stood in wonder of local art, received a history lesson at a powwow, searched the skies for shooting stars and lusted after hotrods at classic car shows. And that doesn't even include the culinary side of this region.

I've devoured country ham, was coaxed into trying (and loving) burgo, and sampled numerous local wines and almost as many different kinds of barbecue. In fact, when I first arrived, the editorial staff of the New Era would go to lunch once a week and I requested we try a new local restaurant every time. That, in and of itself, was an experience.

I recently talked to a man who said there wasn't anything to do locally because all the bars close so early. I felt almost sad. As if the time of day — or night — when one could drink socially was the determining factor of what made a town "boring" or otherwise.

I responded that, as a woman who has traveled the world over, I could definitely tell him there is plenty to do here. Maybe you don't like the outdoors, or you don't like festivals, art shows, musicals or fine cuisine. But really, if you have a list of things you don't like, it's probably not the location that's the problem.

You just might be the problem. If you are bored, it may be because you are boring.

MONICA K. SMITH will be writing an occasional column with an online blog where she discusses some serious and some not-so-serious business. You can follow her online at www.facebook.com/KentuckyNewEra and reach her at 270-887-3243 or mksmith@kentuckynewera.com.

Republican to run for Hopkinsville council seat

BY DAVE BOUCHER
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

There's definitely some history between Jason McCraw and Charlie Henderson. McCraw's father worked for Henderson's grandfather, and the McCraw family lived on the Henderson's farm, McCraw said.

Politically, Henderson handily defeated McCraw when McCraw challenged the longtime councilman for his seat in 2010. When the polls open this November though, McCraw is confident he can create some new history. The first non-incumbent candidate to file for political office in Christian County this election season, McCraw is aiming to take over Henderson's role as representative for Hopkinsville's Ward 5.

McCraw has nothing personally against Henderson, he said. But he thinks it's important to challenge sitting politicians every now and again.

"That's the American way," McCraw said in a phone interview Sunday, adding that competition can push someone to work harder in his or her job.

In the 2010 election, McCraw filed as an Independent. He believes this is one of the biggest reasons he gained only 2,040 votes compared to Henderson's 4,510. In order to vote for him, people had to look down at the bottom of the ballot to find his name, he said. Many people thought they voted for him by casting a straight-Republican ticket, he said.

Registering as a Republican this time around, McCraw thinks the party affiliation will get him more support. Traditionally, presidential elections attract more voters anyway, he said, and he thinks this works out in his favor as well.

"If we can get a 40 percent turnout, I think I'll beat him," McCraw said.

The 62-year-old McCraw is a lifelong resident of Hopkinsville, he said. Although he served as the superintendent of the city's Street Department for six months in 2004, he said he spent more than 20 years before that in the excavating business. At the end of this summer, he retired from the business, but said he still works on a part-time basis.

Trigg deputy arrested on domestic assault charge

Sheriff Burnam says deputy is no longer with department

BY DAVE BOUCHER
NEW ERA STAFF WRITER

A Trigg County sheriff's deputy was arrested Sunday on domestic violence charges, according to Trigg County Sheriff Ray Burnam.

Greyson Taylor is no longer with the department. Burnam said Taylor's employment was "terminated," but added that Taylor tendered his resignation at the same time.

Details about the event that led to Taylor being charged with fourth-degree assault (domestic violence) are not being released at this time, Burnam said.

He confirmed the alleged took place early Sunday.

Taylor, 24, was housed Sunday in the Christian County Jail, according to the jail website.

More information will become available once the sheriff's office releases its incident report, Burnam said.

2012 GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Beshear signs legislative redistricting bill; congressional plan in limbo

KENTUCKY NEWS CONTENT SERVICE

FRANKFORT — Central Lexington got a new state senator on Friday when Gov. Steve Beshear signed into law the controversial redistricting bill that moves the district of Democratic Sen. Kathy Stein out of Lexington to north-eastern Kentucky.

The bill, which had an emergency clause, took effect immediately, Democratic state Sen. Dorsey Ridley of Henderson — 200 miles west of Lexington — now represents the core of Kentucky's second largest city.

The governor will have to wait to review a bill that redraws boundaries of Kentucky's six congressional districts.

The House and Senate adjourned Friday morning until today without approving a congressional redistricting bill. The lack of action means the Jan. 31 filing deadline for candidates for U.S. Congress might have to be extended.

Beshear said the decision to move Stein's 13th Senate District "goes beyond partisanship" and reflects "personal vindictiveness" by Senate President David Williams, R-Burkesville.

Gambling MIA after three weeks of legislative action

BY ROGER ALFORD
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Gov. Steve Beshear's efforts to get lawmakers to approve a "simple" constitutional amendment to open Kentucky to casino-style gambling have been complicated by a bitter partisan fight over legislative redistricting.

Three weeks into the legislative session, Beshear's proposal still hasn't been introduced in the Senate, though he said in late December that he felt confident it would be done in the first week of January. He pledged to "very aggressively" push to allow Kentuckians to wager on more than horse races in the Bible-belt state with a Constitution that frowns on casinos.

"I'm not certain when the bill will actually drop," said Senate Democratic Floor Leader R.J. Palmer II of Winchester. "I would anticipate by the end of the month. There are still some negotiations and discussions going on."

LOCAL BRIEF

Local nonprofits receive money through Murray State grant

The Salvation Army of Hopkinsville, the Kentucky State Police Professional Association and Celebrate Recovery received funds through Murray State University's Pay It Forward grant program.

Through the grant program, $2,000 was split up between the three organizations.

Students enrolled in a leadership class at MSU worked on nonprofit projects in the region and wrote grant proposals for projects for the organization they were working with. After peer review, the students chose four projects to receive funding.

The Salvation Army of Hopkinsville was given $1,000 for a Teen Angel program. Felicia Shelton, an MSU student, developed the program, which will provide holiday gifts for teenagers in needy families in Christian County.

The Kentucky State Police Professional Association got $500 to fund two initiatives: Shop with a Trooper and Trooper Island Camp.

Shop with a Trooper provides clothing to needy children, and Trooper Island Camp is a camp for underprivileged youth. Ronald Cobb, a dispatcher at KSP's Post 2 in Madisonville and an MSU student, submitted the project proposal.

Celebrate Recovery, a faith-based prison recovery ministry, received the remaining $500 to support its mission. MSU student Tina Cochrum worked with Celebrate Recovery, which serves Lyon, Caldwell, Livingston and Trigg counties.

CRIME: Woman arrested in childcare theft case to a Hopkinsville police report.

Felicia Radford is accused of using the credit card for Perfect Loving Care Childcare, where she was an employee, to make $3,934 worth of personal purchases. She was allowed to use the card to buy food items for the facility, but bank statements show charges that were not for the business, the report states. The charges were allegedly made between June 1, 2011 and Nov. 1, 2011.

Peggy Witherspoon, the owner of the business, reported the theft to the Christian County Sheriff's Department in early November.

Report: Hopkinsville man sold car, woman never received vehicle

A Hopkinsville man signed a car over to a Hopkinsville woman, but never actually gave her the vehicle, according to a Hopkinsville police report.

Twione Newell, 30, reportedly sold Tierra Chester a 1998 Delta for $1,000. Chester gave Newell the money and they both signed the title on Oct. 5, the report states.

Newell allegedly told Chester that once she showed him proof of insurance, she could get the car and original title. Chester obtained the insurance, but Newell wouldn't give her the car, according to the report. He also wouldn't take her phone calls and told her in their last conversation that he had gotten rid of the car, the report states.

Newell was issued a criminal summons Friday afternoon. He is scheduled to appear in court Feb. 2.

Princeton pair arrested on drug, weapons charges

Two Princeton men were arrested Friday night following a traffic stop that revealed drugs and weapons, according to two Hopkinsville police reports.

When asked for his ID during a traffic stop, Clayton A. Cotton, 21, gave police a suspended driver's license, the report states. A firearm was also found in the car, even though Cotton is not allowed to possess one, according to the report. Bullets for the gun were also reportedly found in his pocket, as was a blue straw containing an unknown powdery substance.

He was charged with first-degree possession of a controlled substance, tampering with physical evidence, violation of a personal protection order that does not allow firearm ownership, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of a suspended driver's license.

Meanwhile, Robert N. Cotton III, 23, was pulled over Friday night on U.S. 68 in downtown Hopkinsville because he was driving without his lights on, the report states. During a search, officers reportedly found 15 Lortab pills in his pocket. They also found a "police style expandable baton" in the seat where he was sitting.

He was charged with second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance, carrying a concealed deadly weapon and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Although both Clayton and Robert Cotton were arrested at the same time and place, according to their arrest reports, neither is mentioned in the other's police report.

Clayton and Robert Cotton remained at the Christian County Jail Sunday evening.

Local woman, 30, allegedly tried to steal beer from Hopkinsville store

A Hopkinsville woman tried to leave a super market Saturday evening with two cans of beer hidden in her jacket, according to a Hopkinsville police report.

When a clerk from the Piggly Wiggly on North Main Street confronted Misty M. Gagne, 30, she reportedly threw one can of Bud Light beer onto the ground, hit the clerk in the shoulder with an elbow and took off. Police were notified that Gagne was running down Means Avenue. They found her at the Little River Motel, where she was identified by the store clerk, according to the report.

Gagne was charged with one count of second-degree robbery. She was in the Christian County Jail with a $10,000 bond as of Sunday evening.

Cigarettes missing from Hopkinsville liquor store

Someone crawled through the drive-thru window at a Hopkinsville liquor store recently and stole eight cartons of cigarettes, according to a Hopkinsville police report.

John Carr, of Carr's Liquors on Main Street, told police the theft happened Thursday night or Friday morning. The four cartons of Marlboro cigarettes and four cartons of Newport cigarettes are valued at $400 in the report.

McConnell says change is in the air in Myanmar

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Following a trip to Myanmar, U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell told several hundred refugees in Louisville that he is hopeful for real change under the country's democratic reforms, but said it was too soon to lift sanctions.

The Kentucky Republican on Saturday met with the refugees, mostly from the Karen ethnic group who have settled in Kentucky since 2006, the Courier-Journal reported.

McConnell said the United States will track whether the upcoming April 1 elections are fair and monitor the release of political prisoners, some of whom he met with during his trip.

He also said he would be relying on advice from pro-democracy leader Aung San Suu Kyi in deciding on sanctions against the country.

He said he understands the refugees plight, but "clearly change is in the air."

COUNCIL: McCraw likes his chances against Henderson

He also spent nine years in the Army as a staff sergeant, serving in the Vietnam War.

There are a variety of pillars for McCraw's platform: He's in favor of term limits, a more even distribution of political representation on the council — every current council member and Mayor Dan Kemp are registered Democrats — and paying closer attention to the way the city spends taxpayers' money. McCraw specifically mentioned watching the way money from the Municipal Road Aid fund is spent. Stormwater, drainage and sewage containment will also be a focus.

McCraw questioned the council's decisions concerning the creation of a new city hall downtown. He thinks the city is spending too much money on the project, and has lost sight of the original goal of creating a new home for the police department.

"I don't think they need to spend $10 million. It's not justified," McCraw said.

Henderson, who has repeatedly expressed the same sentiment during council discussions, has yet to file for re-election, according to the county's election filing website. He did not return several messages by press time.

The last day to file is Jan. 31. Primary elections are scheduled for May 22, with the general election slated for Nov. 6.

Governor throwing rocks from glass house

Gov. Steve Beshear, we think it's awfully hypocritical of you to criticize Senate President David Williams for the state Senate's redistricting plan when the state House, under Democratic control, did the exact same thing just days before.

Beshear signed a redistricting plan into law on Friday that clearly targets incumbent Democrats in the state Senate. Beshear signed the bill, but not before blasting Sen. David Williams, R-Burkesville, for moving Democratic Sen. Kathy Stein out of Lexington to northeastern Kentucky. The result of the move is that Democratic Sen. Dorsey Ridley, of Henderson, 200 miles west of Lexington, now represents the state's second-largest city.

According to the Lexington Herald-Leader, Beshear said the senatorial redistricting plan went "beyond partisanship" and was motivated by "personal vindictiveness." Those are some strong words, governor, and we don't dispute that the Senate's plan is as partisan as it gets.

Williams responded to the criticism by daring Beshear to reject the legislation, saying that "If the governor truly believed that (the redistricting bill) is such an egregious piece of legislation, he should have the courage of his convictions to veto the plan."

Those are equally strong words, and if the two's back-and-forth in the press is any indication, it will be quite some time before lawmakers can put their parties aside and come together to address the business of moving Kentucky forward.

Additionally, we wonder why Beshear is willing to blast Republicans but not his fellow Democrats, who produced a House redistricting plan that puts Rep. Myron Dossett, R-Pembroke, and his mail box, which is about 100 feet away from his house, in two different districts.

Governor, why is it OK for the House to produce a highly partisan redistricting plan but not the Senate? If you want to come out against the partisan politics that has dominated Frankfort during the redistricting processes, we would applaud that. But to do so and only focus on Republicans doesn't help anybody. You might be wise to look within your own party, which is equally as guilty, before throwing rocks at the GOP.

It's equally concerning to see the ripple effect the redistricting process has had in both chambers. Politicians from both parties have said the climate in Frankfort is so adversarial now that there will likely need to be a cooling off period before the two parties can come together to get anything done. Meanwhile, other business will go unattended to.

Republicans lost in the House redistricting plan. Democrats lost in the Senate, and the voters lost all around. It's long past time for our politicians to put the people who elected them over the party they represent, but sadly that time doesn't appear to be here, and the governor doesn't seem to realize the hypocrisy in criticizing one but not the other.

OUR OPINION

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Inmate weighs in on buggy, orange triangles debate

I would like to voice my opinion on the article about the Amish being jailed in Graves County. First, I would like to send a message to our Christian County Jailor: An orange jumpsuit does nothing for me. Could I have something in a teal green?

I'm an inmate because I broke the law. When you've been jailed for a crime, you forfeit certain rights and privileges, IE, what to wear, drinking alcohol, going to Walmart. There are plenty of people here who would like to smoke a cigarette but can't.

If you're a resident or a visitor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, you must obey the laws set forth by our legislators, no matter what race, ethnic background, sexual preference or religion. The law is for everyone and should not make individual exceptions.

If you do not like residing in a certain community, county or state, move. People usually choose to live where they want. I know, by my actions, I chose to live at 410 W. Seventh Street, the Christian County Jail.

The posting of an orange triangle is not to frown on someone's beliefs. It is a safety issue, not just for those in the buggies but also for those who might collide with them. If religion is to be used for their defiance, and defense, let me quote some scripture from Matthew 22:24. "Render unto Cesar the things that are Cesar's." In this case, Cesar is the state of Kentucky and the fines are that which is his.

We can expect more from our government when we are more

While watching the GOP Forum on the Huckabee show, where private citizens asked questions of the politicians, I noted several questions related to the EPA and HEW. Not one politician or citizen seemed to be aware that basically both the EPA and HEW are unconstitutional organizations. The Constitution grants the quality of water and air control specifically to the states, just as the administration of health, education and welfare is granted specifically to the states. The infamous Commerce Clause is to allow federal negotiations in time of dispute on these matters, NOT to force health care mandates.

Both of these organizations, and heavens knows how many others, are duplications of manpower, as well as money and power grabbing. In addition to getting term limits in place in our government, we certainly need to clean house in the duplication sweepstakes, and we need to get the power back to the people where it belongs.

However, how can we get the power back to the people when they seem more than happy to forget about responsibility, honor, concern, work? Unless people are responsible for their own actions and accountable to the people they serve, we will continue to have a selfish, corrupt government. Only when the people become more can they expect more. And unless they expect more, our elected officials will continue to meet minimum standards and operate in corruption. We are responsible for the quality of leadership we receive and accept.

In other words, we can't blame corruption on the politicians alone, as long as we are ready to accept it. The same with business, and all other levels of operation. Expectations! We have to be more, and expect more, in order to reach any standard of expectations in public leadership. Lead by example, in other words.

High price we pay for progress

I took my wife to the dentist the other day and it took us 45 minutes to fill out all the paperwork and 15 minutes for the dentist to put a cap back on her tooth.

I don't know exactly why a dentist needs to know how tall you are or what your driver's license number is, but that was two of the 50 questions we had to answer. The questionnaire was four pages long, and it piled into every aspect of her private life. I guess it is still necessary to ask 89-year-old women if they are pregnant, but I would guess they do not get too many "yes" answers. Are you taking birth control pills seems a little redundant when you are 89 but that is the price we pay for progress and standardization.

Folks are living well into their 90s these days but they spend about 30 of those years filling out papers and that, to my mind, is not real high-class living.

Pretty soon now, I will settle up with the government for what I owe in taxes — federal, state, county, district, library, property, etc.

I suppose it is all money well spent but they will not take my money before I fill out a nine-pound document telling exactly where I got the money. It takes a fellow with five years of training beyond high school to know how to answer the questions the IRS asks and even they get into arguments about the right answer.

To quote that wise philosopher, Gypsy Rose Lee, "You just need to grin and bare it because you can't get by with hiding things from the government." Her personal attitude was that she had nothing to hide and it looks like that is what we are all coming to.

We try to protect some of our privacy with passwords but I had just as soon let it all hang out as to try to remember all those passwords. I think I have some pin numbers too, but I do not remember them either. I am supposed to put my account numbers on all the checks I write, but accurately copying 16 numbers is especially hard when the fours and nines look just alike. When they get up to 26 numbers, I do not even try.

My completely obnoxious computer has gotten into the act and is constantly telling me that changes have been made to the normal file and then asks if I want to save the changes. I have no idea what the normal file is so how would I know?

If you want my opinion, life is getting pretty dern tedious and we need all those extra years just to fill out forms and answer dumb questions.

Someone suggested that we could solve some of these problems by giving everyone a national ID number. I am not much into tattoos but I would cheerfully accept a national ID number and have it tattooed on my behind. That way, I could easily prove who I am and show my attitude at the intrusion at the same time.

The American Civil Liberties Union got wind of the suggestion of a national ID number and went into cardiac arrest. They couldn't stand the idea of this kind of invasion of our privacy.

KY GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Next up: Tackling budget shortfall

After a pause in legislative work Monday to commemorate and honor Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on his birthday, the General Assembly reconvened Tuesday and joined the House to hear the details of the Commonwealth's finances.

In one of the first steps in the daunting task of determining the new biennial budget, the governor presented his state spending plan to a joint session of the House and Senate. While there is some good news to be found in recent increased revenues and a relatively healthy Road Fund, the overall tone of the Budget Address was bleak.

As we continue to dig out of the Great Recession, we once again face a serious deficit — by our own best estimates, more than $460 million over the next biennium. That comes in the face of millions of dollars in increased costs to many critical services like Medicaid.

The governor's proposal cuts many governmental agencies an additional 8.4 percent to cover that shortfall, exempting only the basic funding formula for K-12 education, plus Medicaid, corrections, and a few other crucial areas. Higher education and the state police face lesser cuts.

The administration proposal is now in the hands of House budget subcommittees. After they are finished — and the full House puts its stamp on the plan — it will come to us in the Senate for our input. This will be a tough budget to write, but we will do our best to protect vulnerable citizens, ensure vital services, and continue our climb out of an unprecedented economic downturn in a fiscally responsible way.

As we reported to you after the first week of the legislative session, redistricting is one of the first and most time-urgent items on our agenda. We are Constitutionally mandated to reapportion State Legislative, Congressional and Judicial district lines every 10 years to match population shifts and changes identified in the latest U.S. Census. Meeting the Supreme Court principle of "one person, one vote" is difficult in a myriad of legal ways, and never a pleasant process. But, on Wednesday, we approved redrawn maps, on a 21-15 vote for Congressional districts and a 22-14 vote for Legislative and Judicial districts.

On a personal note, I look forward to serving the people of Christian, Caldwell, Crittenden and Union — the counties I will now be serving under the new district plan. I have always had a good working relationship with Logan and Todd officials and citizens and will maintain that relationship as I establish similar close kinships in my new counties. I have already made a number of contacts with officials, community leaders and citizens in my new counties and will continue working to enhance those relationships and form additional ones.

We have not reached an understanding on the redistricting plan for the Congressional districts, but the Senate and the House have appointed a special conference committee to work out an agreement.

This week, work continued on anti-meth-lab legislation. Senate Bill 50 was discussed in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The bill would require a doctor's prescription to buy ephedrine and pseudoephedrine, main ingredients in making illegal methamphetamine. If the bill becomes law, sales of those drugs would also be tracked in the state's prescription-drug monitoring system.

Last week, committee members heard testimony favoring the legislation, which would strike at the heart of meth abuse in the Commonwealth, which everyone agrees is a true scourge. This week, folks came before the committee to express opposition, saying law-abiding families should not be forced into the inconvenience and expense of seeing a doctor for simple cold medicine.

While everyone shares a common interest in alleviating the drug problems facing the commonwealth, there are many differing opinions on how to accomplish that goal. As always, we are interested in hearing from all sides before making a decision.

Other topics were considered this week as well, as we continue the long journey through our 60-working-day session. Many more bills will be considered between now and mid-April. Now is the time to become informed on the issues we are considering in Frankfort. I encourage you to get — or stay — involved with the legislative process, and let me know your thoughts and concerns.

Sidney Crawford, fifth grade student at Indian Hills Elementary School, has been selected as the "Student of the Month" for January. Academics, work ethic, attendance and attitude are all factors taken into consideration before a student is selected to receive this honorable mention. Her favorite subjects in school are math and science. She enjoys working long division problems and is a whiz when using technology. Recently, Sidney and her classmates competed in the Regional STLP competition. The Indian Hills STLP team will advance to the state competition in March. Sidney is also on the school's academic team. Aside from her dedication to school, Sidney dances and plays the piano. She has practiced both activities for three years. While she is musically inclined, piano is not the only instrument she plays. Sidney also plays violin and has an interest in learning to play the clarinet in the near future. Sidney Crawford was selected by Indian Hills Elementary School Principal, Lindsey Childers.

WORLD BRIEFS

Presidential contest shifts to Florida after Gingrich South Carolina victory scrambles race

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A suddenly scrambled Republican presidential contest now shifts to Florida, a day after Newt Gingrich stopped Mitt Romney's sprint to the GOP nomination by scoring a convincing victory in South Carolina.

The air of inevitability that surrounded Romney's candidacy just days ago is gone, at least for now. And his rivals, led by Gingrich, have 10 days before Florida's Jan. 31 contest to prove South Carolina was no fluke.

Human Rights Watch urges the West to back peaceful protests and end the 'Arab exception'

CAIRO (AP) — Popular uprisings sweeping the Arab world exposed biases by Western governments that supported Arab autocratic rulers for the sake of "stability" while turning a blind eye to their repressive policies, Human Rights Watch said Sunday.

The New-York based group urged democratic governments to adopt persistent and consistent support for peaceful protesters and to press both autocratic rulers and newly emerging democracies to avoid intolerance and seeking revenge.

As EU's luster fades, Croats vote in referendum on EU membership

ZAGREB, Croatia (AP) — Croats voted Sunday in a nationwide referendum on whether to join the European Union — a test of how much the debt-stricken 27-nation bloc has lost its appeal among potential new members.

Several pre-vote surveys suggest that between 56 and 60 percent of those who take part in the vote will answer "yes" to the question: "Do you support the membership of the Republic of Croatia in the European Union?"

Those who support the EU say their Balkan country's troubled economy — burdened by recession, a $61-billion foreign debt and a 17 percent unemployment rate — will revive due to access to wider European markets and job opportunities that the membership should bring.

As father mourns, UK link emerges in latest American drone strike in Pakistan

ABBOTTABAD, Pakistan (AP) — On Jan. 14 at 8:12 p.m., Khushal Khan's wife got a call on her cell phone. "Your son has been martyred," the voice said at the other end of the line. The man then hung up.

The end for Khan's youngest son, Aslam Awan, came when a drone piloted remotely from the United States fired a missile at a house along Pakistan's border with Afghanistan. Awan was among four people killed, U.S. officials said this week, describing Awan as an "external operations planner" for al-Qaida. British authorities say he was a member of a militant cell in northern England who had fought in Afghanistan.

The Jan. 10 strike in the militant stronghold of North Waziristan that killed Awan was a victory for the CIA-led drone program at time when relations between Washington and Islamabad are very strained, in part by the missile strikes. It was one of the first drone attacks after a hiatus of some six weeks following a friendly fire incident in which U.S. forces killed 24 Pakistani border troops, nearly leading to a severing of ties with Islamabad.

No. 12 Murray Racers on only unbeaten Division-I team

FROM NEW ERA STAFF AND ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Murray State guard Jewuan Long did a little scoreboard watching on Saturday night. Long and his teammates were well aware that top-ranked and previously unbeaten Syracuse lost to Notre Dame just minutes before the undefeated Racers were set to take the court at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

“We saw what happened to them and we focused hard,” Long said. “We want to make sure that something like that didn’t happen to us.”

Long made sure it didn’t with a season-high 17 points that helped leave No. 12 Murray State as the only unbeaten team in Division I after an 82-65 victory.

Isaiah Canaan led the Racers with 21 points, Donte Poole added 14 and Ed Daniel chipped in with 10. Latreze Mushatt had a team-high eight rebounds for Murray State (20-0, 8-0 Ohio Valley Conference).

Murray State also picked up its NCAA-leading ninth road win of the season.

Mark Yelovich led the Cougars (5-12, 3-5) with 17 points. Kris Davis added 15 points and Derian Shaffer had 12. Edwardsville was facing its third ranked opponent since moving to Division I in 2008-09.

The Racers used a 16-0 run in the first half to erase a two-point deficit and take control 26-12. Poole hit back-to-back 3-pointers in 24 seconds to complete the run. Canaan also added a trey and Mushatt chipped in with a key basket.

Murray State, which led 49-35 at the half, pushed the lead to 22 in the second half and now sits alone atop the college hoops landscape.

“It’s a great feeling knowing you’ve hit a plateau that you’ve worked so hard for,” Poole said. “We’re there all alone.”

Murray State coach Steve Prohm, in his first season at the helm, is not ready to celebrate just yet.

“This means a lot to our community and our school and I think we realize that,” Prohm said. “We’ve got a great group of kids and they are tremendously humble. I’m proud of each and every one of them. But we know there’s a lot more work to be done.”

■Austin Peay 76, Eastern Illinois 64: In Charleston, Ill., Former University Heights Academy standout TyShwan Edmondson scored 24 points and Austin Peay won its season-best fifth in a row by defeating Eastern Illinois 76-64 on Saturday night.

Edmondson converted four of his team’s five 3-pointers and Jerome Clyburn sank 12 of 14 free throws and scored 18 points for the Governors (8-13, 5-3 Ohio Valley). Josh Terry added 11 points and Melvin Baker 10.

■Western Kentucky 65, Arkansas-Little Rock 53: In Bowling Green, Ky, Derrick Gordon and Jamal Crook scored 13 points apiece as Western Kentucky beat Arkansas-Little Rock 65-53 on Saturday, snapping a five-game losing streak.

Kentucky's Anthony Davis (center) dunks between Alabama's Moussa Gueye (14) and JaMychal Green during the first half of their game Saturday in Lexington. Kentucky won 77-71.

No. 2 Wildcats hold on to beat Crimson Tide

BY COLIN FLY
AP SPORTS WRITER

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Alabama’s plan to beat Kentucky involved swarming freshman Anthony Davis.

The only place he and the rest of the Wildcats found some elbow room was at the free-throw line.

Terrence Jones scored 15 points and No. 2 Kentucky hit all eight of its free throws in the final minute to hold on to beat Alabama 77-71 on Saturday for the Wildcats’ 47th straight home victory.

“That’s one of the more physical games I’ve played. It’s going to get worse. I’ve just got to fight through it,” said Davis, who finished 2 of 10 from the field and 7 of 9 from the free-throw line for 11 points. “There’s going to be other teams just like that. There’s not going to be any games off — Vanderbilt, Florida, Georgia. They’re all going to be games where we have to come out and be physical.”

Kentucky (19-1, 5-0 Southeastern Conference) took the lead for good early in the first half, but Alabama’s Trevor Releford scored all 17 of his points in the second half to keep the Crimson Tide (13-6, 2-3) close until the end.

“We came into the game and we knew we had to be physical and hit them because they’re athletic and long in the front court,” Alabama’s JaMychal Green said. “Our focus mainly was hitting them, being physical and rebounding.”

All of Alabama’s hitting turned into foul shots and the teams combined for 45 fouls called.

Jones made Kentucky’s final field goal with 6:57 left, but the Wildcats hit 23 of 29 second-half free-throw attempts and scored their final 15 points from the free-throw line.

Green had 22 points and 12 rebounds and Trevor Lacey added 10 points for Alabama, which lost its third in a row, but may have provided a blueprint for how to slow the Wildcats.

“I always kept a body on Davis if he rolled to the goal because we watched him play,” Green said. “We saw a lot of lobs and dunks, so we knew that’s how he scored. We just kept him off the boards.”

No. 23 Cardinals drop Pittsburgh

BY WILL GRAVES
AP SPORTS WRITER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Kyle Kuric won’t be able to shed the walking boot protecting his bum left ankle for at least one or two more weeks.

The Louisville senior forward can deal with the cumbersome shoe so long as it helps him play with the confidence he showed in the 23rd-ranked Cardinals’ surprisingly easy 73-62 win over reeling Pittsburgh on Saturday night.

Kuric scored a season-high 21 points in his return after missing two games with a high ankle sprain, only occasionally favoring his injured leg.

“I didn’t want to just get there and make excuses, ‘Oh, my ankle’s sore,’” Kuric said. “So I just put it outside of my mind.”

Chane Behanan added a career-high 19 points, while Gorgui Dieng had 13 points and 14 rebounds for the Cardinals (15-5, 3-4 Big East), who took control during an 11-2 run midway through the second half to send the Panthers (11-9, 0-7) to their eighth straight loss.

Patriots, Giants to face off in Super Bowl, again

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. (AP) — Tom Brady got all the help he needed to get the New England Patriots into the Super Bowl. Thank you, Billy Cundiff.

The Baltimore Ravens kicker shanked a 32-yard field goal with 11 seconds left and the Patriots escaped with a 23-20 victory in the AFC championship game on Sunday.

Usually, vintage Brady doesn't need much assistance in championship settings, but the Patriots much-maligned defense came through, and Brady's 1-yard touchdown dive with 11:29 left proved to be the winning points.

“Well, I sucked pretty bad today, but our defense saved us,” Brady said after throwing for 239 yards, with two interceptions and, for the first time in 36 games, no TD passes. “I’m going to try to go out and do a better job in a couple of weeks, but I’m proud of this team, my teammates.”

Brady waited out the final tense minutes on the sideline, and then celebrated with the rest of his team when Cundiff's attempt went wide left. The Ravens looked on in stunned horror.

Cundiff had no excuse.

“It’s a kick I’ve kicked probably a thousand times in my career,” Cundiff said. “I went out there and didn’t convert. That’s the way things go.”

Next up as the Patriots chase their fourth Super Bowl trophy in Brady and coach Bill Belichick's tenure in New England is the New York Giants, who beat the San Francisco 49ers 20-17 in overtime Sunday night.

The Patriots were installed as 3-point favorites for the Super Bowl on Feb. 5 in Indianapolis.

In their last trip to the big game, the Patriots had an 18-0 record when they were stunned by the Giants four years ago. They won the NFL championship for the 2001, 2003 and 2004 seasons. This time, they head to the Super Bowl with a 10-game winning streak.

Before Cundiff missed, the Ravens had a chance to go ahead two plays earlier, but wide receiver Lee Evans was stripped of the ball in the end zone by backup corner-■Giants 20, 49ers 17, OT: In San Francisco, Lawrence Tynes booted the Giants into the Super Bowl again.

Tynes kicked a winning 31-yard field goal in sudden-death overtime and New York beat the San Francisco 49ers 20-17 in the NFC championship game Sunday night to reach its second Super Bowl in five seasons.

Eli Manning and the Giants (12-7) will face the New England Patriots in the Super Bowl on Feb. 5 in Indianapolis, just as they did when they won it in 2008.

Tynes also kicked the game-winning field goal in overtime at Green Bay in the 2008 NFC title game that put the Giants in the Super Bowl.

Devon Thomas put the Giants in position. He recovered his second fumble of the game after Jacquan Williams stripped the ball from fill-in return man Kyle Williams.

coaching to get what they have accomplished," UHA coach Randy McCoy said. "I can be no prouder of what this group of guys have gotten accomplished in the last six or seven games. We had our chances tonight. We have to make free throws. But we have to figure out a way for the other team not to shoot 41 and us only shoot 20-something."

Webster looked to be in control of the game after Taylor Turner's basket gave the Trojans a 32-23 lead with 5:30 left in the third quarter.

However, Quadre White's 3-pointer drew UHA within 32-28. But White was whistled for a technical foul for taunting and Scott buried two free throws to push the lead back to 34-28.

But White wasn't done. The senior hit three free throws after being fouled on a shot behind the arc and then hit another 3 at the third-quarter buzzer to tie the game at 34.

"We just put the intensity up and we really wanted this and we had to go real, real hard," White said. "In the end, they just made some shots. I'm happy for them. I hope they do real well at the All A' state."

Senior K'Quan McNease gave the Blazers (10-8) their first lead since the end of the first quarter; on a put-back basket with 6:07 to play in regulation.

Heights led 42-38 with 1:28 to play in regulation but Scott hit two free throws and after McNease missed the front of a one-and-one, Scott buried two more free shots to tie the game with 52 ticks left.

Both teams had turnovers but UHA had two chances including a point-black putback shot at the buzzer that wouldn't fall.

McNease fouled out with 2:11 left in the first overtime, but White stepped up again, hitting another 3 to tie the game at 46 with 1:33 to play and another basket with 10 seconds left to knot the score at 48. White finished with 17 points to pace UHA.

Webster had a shot from the foul line that hit the back of the rim as the buzzer sounded. In the second overtime, UHA committed three turnovers on its first four possessions and White fouled out with 1:07 to play as Webster built a 53-49 lead.

Blazers starting point guard Dashjon Brown, who had 10 points, fouled out with 53 seconds left and Webster leading 55-49.

Penn State coach Joe Paterno leads his team onto the field before a game against Akron Sept. 4, 2004, in State College, Pa. Paterno, the longtime Penn State coach who won more games than anyone else in major college football but was fired amid a child sex abuse scandal that scarred his reputation for winning with integrity, died Sunday. He was 85.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — Other than family, football was everything to Joe Paterno. It was his lifeblood. It kept him pumped.

Life could not be same without it. "Right now, I'm not the coach. And I've got to get used to that," Paterno said after the Penn State Board of Trustees fired him at the height of a child sex abuse scandal. Before he could, he ran out of time.

Paterno, a sainted figure at Penn State for almost half a century but scarred forever by the scandal involving his one-time heir apparent, died Sunday at age 85.

His death came just 65 days after his son

Scott said his father had been diagnosed with lung cancer. Mount Nittany Medical Center said he died at 9:25 a.m. of "metastatic small cell carcinoma of the lung," an aggressive cancer that has spread from one part of the body to an unrelated area.

Friends and former colleagues believe there were other factors — the kind that wouldn't appear on a death certificate.

"You can die of heartbreak. I'm sure Joe had some heartbreak, too," said 82-year-old Bobby Bowden, the former Florida State coach who retired two years ago after 34 seasons in Tallahassee.

Longtime Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said he suspected "the emotional turmoil of the last few weeks might have played into it."

Blazers grapple in Atlanta

FROM NEW ERA STAFF REPORTS

The University Heights Academy wrestling team sent three grapplers to the prestigious Clinch Gear Prep School Slam over the weekend in Atlanta.

Wade Willen and Cameron Montgomery both earned top-eight finishes in the tournament.

Willen (126 pounds) and Montgomery (152) both advanced to the quarterfinals before losing.

Meanwhile, Dalton Putty (106) went 2-2 in the tournament, which included teams from California, Florida, New York, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky.

"By far, this is the toughest tournament we wrestle all year, including the state tournament," UHA coach Doug Willen said. "Every weight class is loaded with state champions and nationally ranked wrestlers from across the country. Our guys proved they are able to wrestle with the best. To make the final eight is quite an accomplishment."

Senior K'Quan McNease gave the Blazers (10-8) their first lead since the end of the first quarter; on a put-back basket with 6:07 to play in regulation.

Heights led 42-38 with 1:28 to play in regulation but Scott hit two free throws and after McNease missed the front of a one-and-one, Scott buried two more free shots to tie the game with 52 ticks left.

Both teams had turnovers but UHA had two chances including a point-black putback shot at the buzzer that wouldn't fall.

McNease fouled out with 2:11 left in the first overtime, but White stepped up again, hitting another 3 to tie the game at 46 with 1:33 to play and another basket with 10 seconds left to knot the score at 48. White finished with 17 points to pace UHA.

Webster had a shot from the foul line that hit the back of the rim as the buzzer sounded. In the second overtime, UHA committed three turnovers on its first four possessions and White fouled out with 1:07 to play as Webster built a 53-49 lead.

Blazers starting point guard Dashjon Brown, who had 10 points, fouled out with 53 seconds left and Webster leading 55-49.

varsity wrestling team took seventh place in the Dragon Invitational Saturday at South Oldham High School.

The Colonels had seven wrestlers place led by champion J.J. Killebrew at 113 pounds.

Caleb Austin (106), Kevi Matlock (138) and James Day (285) were fifth, Asa Odoms (120) was sixth and Stevie Mason (195) and Tayshaun Cayce (220) were both eighth. "This was a great tournament," Christian County coach Robert Burnham said. "It has state level competition. I like it because it gives our kids a small taste of what the competition at the state tournament will be like."

Middle School Cols win division at Region 1 meet

The Christian County Middle School wrestling team scored 145 points and won the School Division of the Region 1 Middle School Tournament Saturday at Union County Middle School.

LaRue County took second with 95 points and Trigg County was third with 84.

Camerin Cole won the 121-pound division for the Colonels. Froilan Agulto (113) and Keijuan Major (190) finished runner-up.

The Colonels qualified nine of their 11 wrestlers. Third-place finishers were Justin Newby (105), Keyven Sells (140) and Angel Silva (168) and fourth-place finishers included Mickell Higgins (98), Kobe Perry (140) and Alex Billiter (152).

"It was an outstanding day," Colonels' coach Robert Burnham said. "The team continues to excel and will continue to work hard."

Trigg County's Jeremiah Kline won his division and was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler.

The Wildcats' Devanta Turner was second. Other state qualifiers included Malik Cunningham and Elliott Boyd, who were third, and Colin Stevens, who finished sixth.

Meanwhile, Hopkinsville's Isaiah Lawson remained undefeated on the year, winning the 152-pound division. Cameron DeArmond was third at 75 and Thomas Welch was fourth at 86 pounds.

In the Club Division, Union County won with 254 points, followed by North Hardin with 166 and Caldwell County with 89.

The state tournament is scheduled for two weeks in Mount Sterling.

Tigers stumble to visiting BG

FROM NEW ERA STAFF REPORTS

The Hopkinsville Tigers missed 26 free throws and dropped a 72-69 boys' high school basketball game to visiting Bowling Green Saturday night.

The Tigers finished 22 for 48 in the game from the free throw line and at one point missed 12 straight free shots.

"We didn't come out playing well and then we would go down, get fouled and miss both shots and pretty soon we looked up and we are down 14," Hoptown coach Tim Haworth said. "We hit free throws, we win. I think we will learn a lot from this loss."

Jordan Majors led Hopkinsville (17-2) with 20 points. Trey Edwards had 15 and JaQualis Matlock added 12 for the Tigers, who play host to Todd County Central on Tuesday.

Colonels suffer 5th straight defeat

Louisville Western sent Christian County to its fifth straight boys' basketball loss Saturday with a 76-71 overtime win in the Toyota Classic in Georgetown.

The Warriors outrebounded the Colonels 44-34 and won despite committing 30 turnovers.

C.J. Cotton led Christian County with 18 points and Jarvis Ierby added 16. Demarius Poindexter contributed 13 points and James White led the Colonels (5-13) with seven rebounds.

The Colonels won the Wilhite Sportsmanship Award and Poindexter was named to the All-Tournament team.

Christian County returns to action Thursday at home against Hopkinsville.

the game. UHA missed two shots in the final seconds of regulation.

In overtime, Starling scored with 52 seconds remaining for a 57-55 lead and the Lady Blazers never trailed again.

The sophomore center blocked two more Webster shots in the final minute. She also finished with eight points and six rebounds in the game.

"We scouted them and we didn't see that kind of effort out of her on any other night," Webster coach Christina Whitsell said of Starling. "Her effort was really good. To our credit, we did attack and go to the rim, but we wanted to pull back and not get in on her. In the fourth quarter it was blocked after block after block. ... She obviously made a huge difference in the paint."

UHA led 20-16 with 5:18 to play in the second quarter, but the Lady Trojans (10-9) went on a 9-0 run to take a 25-20 lead. They eventually pushed their advantage to 34-22 early in the third quarter before Starling entered.

The win advances UHA into the Touchstone Energy All "A" Classic State Tournament against Magoffin County at 4 p.m. (CST) Wednesday in the Frankfort Convention Center.

"STOOL-PIGEON"

THE TERM "STOOL PIGEON", SYNONYMOUS WITH BETRAYAL, ORIGINATED IN THE 19TH CENTURY. A BLINDED PIGEON WAS TIED TO A SMALL PLATFORM, CALLED A STOOL, HELD DOWN BY A SPRING. WHEN A FLOCK APPROACHED, A RELEASED SPRING HURLED THE CAPTIVE INTO THE AIR. BLINDED, THE BIRD QUICKLY SETTLED TO THE GROUND, ALWAYS ATTRACTING SOME OF ITS FELLOWS. THEY WERE EASILY NETTED, AND THE BETRAYER WAS RETURNED TO ITS "STOOL".

Trigg County High School hosts archery tournament

FROM NEW ERA STAFF REPORTS

Six area schools gathered this weekend in Cadiz with students aiming to win the top spot at the ArrowCat Classic.

Elementary, middle and high school students from Murray, Trigg County, Adairville, Logan County, Lewisburg and Chet, a home school group based in Nashville, Tenn., competed in the tournament, which was hosted by the Trigg County ArrowCats.

District Archery Coordinator Christy Dickerson said 190 students participated in the fundraising tournament.

Shooters were given 30 arrows: 15 of which were shot from 10 meters away from the sitting targets, and 15 of which were shot from 15 meters away.

All the shooters in a round began after a whistle from the line judge. Each target had two shooters aiming at it.

When all shooters in the round had released their arrows, the shooters checked their results.

Each shooter kept score for the person who shared his or her target.

The highest score a shooter could get in a match was 300. The bull's-eye was worth 10 points and points decline the farther the arrow is from the center. Missing the target was scored as a zero.

Dickerson, who is also the regional archery coordinator for Trigg's Region 1, said the next archery tournament will be the regionals on March 1.

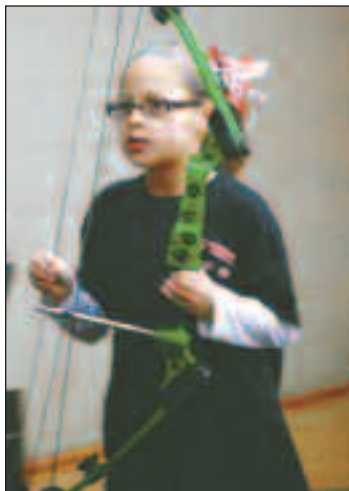

Dickerson started as a volunteer with archery when her son participated in the sport. She soon became a coach. She admits that she only shoots every now and then.

"I can teach the fundamentals of it," Dickerson said. "The kids can out-shoot me any day."

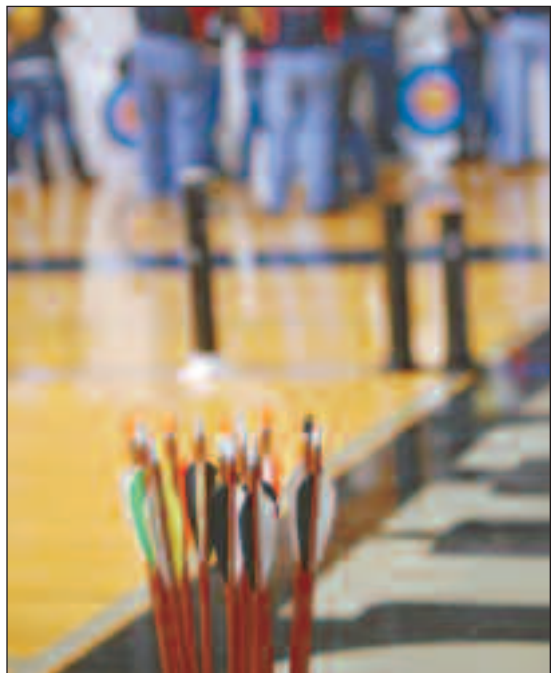

The results of the tournament will be posted on www.kentuckynewera.com as soon as they're made available.

Devin Litchfield, of Trigg County High School, uses a string bow to practice before he shoots in the tournament.

Raelyn Marlowe, 9, a fourth-grader at Trigg County Elementary School, competes in the tournament.

Notice To Our Advertisers Counterfeit or fake checks are being used in a growing number of fraudulent schemes. Check overpayment scams target consumers selling cars or other valuable items through classified ads or online auction sites. Unsuspecting sellers get stuck when scammers pass off bogus cashiers checks, corporate checks, or personal checks. If you're selling something, don't accept a check for more than the selling price, no matter how tempting the offer or how convincing the story, especially if it is from an out of town buyer. Ask the buyer to write the check for the correct amount. If the buyer refuses to send the correct amount, return the check. Don't send the merchandise. If you think you've been targeted by a counterfeit check scam, report it to the Federal Trade Commission. Visit www.ftc.gov or call 1-877-FTC-HELP (1-877-382-4357) for more details or to report suspected fraud. This is a public service announcement brought to you by this newspaper. MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE

JACQUELINE BIGAR

A baby born today has a Sun and Moon in Aquarius.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★★ You might want to touch base with others before a meeting. Make sure you all are on the same page. For the most part, if everyone has the same objectives, a flow exists. Information gathering needs to continue. Tonight: Where the fun is.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★ Take a stand and acknowledge what is going on behind the scenes. You have the ability to get together with others and clear out a problem. Your intuition combines with leadership, and new skills emerge. Trust your instincts. Tonight: To the wee hours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Reach out for someone at a distance. Your ability to clear out a mess, to think differently and to resolve issues evolves. Have you been toying around with taking a class, or perhaps a mini vacation? Schedule this event. if not now, soon. Tonight: Answer your emails, then decide.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★ Work with someone directly before making a judgment. Much more is going on than you think with this person. Your impressions might be askew, therefore you will not be able to trust what you believe "should" happen. Tonight: Chat with a key person in your life.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Others test the waters to see how much give you have. Listen to what is being shared, knowing the story is slightly slanted. Maintain a sense of humor, and you might even have fun dealing with the situation. Try not to let on that you read others as clearly. Tonight: Sort through invitations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★★ Your ability to grow past an issue can determine your success. Do not get fixed on the same issue when approaching many different situations. Let go and believe there will be a solution heading your way. Examine new possibilities. Tonight: Some time off.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ A serious attitude could prevent some of the exchanges necessary for you to be more creative and dynamic. Ask yourself: What am I trying to accomplish? Realize that your life goals might be better served by an upbeat attitude. Tonight: Choose fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★ Mentally or even physically, you are at home. A domestic situation might dominate. You know when enough is enough. A light attitude allows a different type of interaction. Clear out a personal matter to release your mind and increase your focus. Tonight: Don't go far.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★★ Your friendlier side emerges, despite a difficult situation involving a friend or associate. Let go and you might see everything fall into place. As long as you resist, so will others. Make necessary calls, squeezing in a chat or two with a friend. Tonight: Hang out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★ Be aware of the costs of proceeding in such a different mode. Others might not feel as secure as you would like. Weigh the pros and cons once more before acting on a decision. The decision is neither right or wrong. Tonight: Pay bills, then decide.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Creativity increases. You easily could come up with the nuggets of a great idea. Do not hold back, as you have a receptive audience. Be open, yet present your thoughts with flair. Someone cannot resist you. Tonight: Whatever feels right.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★ Know when to say less and think more. Your ability to separate reality from wishful thinking needs to emerge. You might be wishing more than gathering information. Continue being an observer. Know your objectives. Tonight: Get some extra R and R.

BORN TODAY: Singer Anita Pointer (1948), actor Richard Dean Anderson (1950), comedian Ernie Kovacs (1919)
